THE UNDERSIGNED would intimate to the trade, that it is now two yeurs since the publication of the first edition of his celebrated work on Cutting Garments, during which lime it has met with an unprecedented safe, and is no instance whatever, has any objections be a made to its practical utility. But on the contrary, all who have used it, recommend it as superior to any thing of the kind heretofore offered to the trade. The explanations of the Divagram are ample and plain, so that a person of ordinary capacity, and without any other instructions, is easibled in a few hours to cut any kind of garment in a style of elegance and fashion, which heretofore required years of the most intense study and close application. The Anti-Rent Excitement-View at the Future-The Message-Albany Enterprise-Theatricals-Weather-Lectures, &c. &c.

The title of the Van Rensselaers to the land embraced in the grant of "William and Mary" is not conceded, and the Dutch descendants of "Rip Van Winkle," and "Old Knick," in this city, are often conceded, and the Dutch descendants of "Rip Van Winkle," and "Old Knick," in this city, are often heard, by a casual observer, speculating upon the constitutionality of the title of the Patroon. The awful tragedy enacted in Delaware county, and the commutation of the sentence of the murderers, by Silas Wright, will not have a tendency to allay the most inveterate animosity which is felt by the tenants towards Van Rensselaer, or to delay, for a protracted period, their efforts, lawful or not, to annul his claim, and their positive determination and sworn obligation, not to accede or submit, in the meantime, to his requisitions for rent. I assure you the anti-rent excitement is but temporarily smothered, only to discover itself with renewed fury; and if the State Legislature does not interpose, and make a final and equitable adjustment of this mooted matter, the young Patroon's land will be vacated, or he must resign his title. This claim of the Van Rensselaers is said to be anti-republican, anti-democratic, and based upon a principle of monarchical law, which is inconsistent with American policy and which ought not and will not be submitted to by the tenants. So say the tenants. They believe that if Stephen Van Rensselaer had lived, an anicable settlement would have been made; and they think he has been succeeded by a young and haughty aristocrat, to whom they will not submit, and to whose claims they will pay no manner of regard. Such is the present feeling among the tenants in this county. How this matter will end, we cannot predict. What effect, in the event of war with England, the disunion which exists among the people in America, political and social will have, we cannot determine; but, I have to say, that I have heard the opinion hazarded by men high in place and power, that if war with Great Britain is declared, that the expectations of men who suppose there will be concert of action, and will not be realised. I give you these sentiments as emanating from distinguished and eminent men here, from wnom I h selves for two or three years past. The various phases and forms under which it has disclosed itself, are familiar to every man.

Mr. Polk's most singular and critical message is talked of every where. Old men read it to their children—lawyers discuss its belligerent character—young ladies read it—(i have seen seven young ladies enter Jones' Literary Depot, under the Museum, within the space of ten minutes, cloaked and veiled, and enquire for the New York Herald with Polk's message.) and it is the subject of conversation in every society. Your opinions in yesterday's Herald, with the extructs from the English papers, are read with the utmost avidity, and men anxiously wait every day for a copy of the next Herald.

Pity that a lattle of the public spirit of New York could not be infused into Albany citizens. The ice in the river will not admit of the crossing of horces and sleighs upon it, and the only ferry boat we have here, except the Boston railway ferry boat, has discontinued its trips. The Western Railroad Company condescend to carry over sleighs occasionally. But at least one hundred teams have repeatedly waited, on the Greenbush side of the river, three hours for a chance to get over. This is not vary creditable to the philanthropy and spirit of Albany capitalists. Men have concluded that a bridge is indispensable, and the repeal of the militia law, and the charter for a bridge, will be amorg the first acts of the next Legislature.

Rev. Samuel H. Cox lectured before the Young Men's model prepared. This is another evidence of the extraordinary public spirit of the citizens of Albany. Albany, the oldest city in the Union, has not one suitable building for the representation of the productions of William Shakspeare, the philosopher of poetry, the father of the drama.

Burke has re-appeared in this city. He is going "bock agin" over the water to rehearse, as a friend at my e bow says.

Miss St. Clair, full of various kinds of feminine attributes, is dazzling the Albanians with her dancing.
Somebody says she was a protegi of the divine Fanny's Her profile is remarkable for its bon gout—her face is very pretty—her feet and ankles are delicately formed, and she is a graceful danseuss, tout en tout.

Mrs. Hunt is in the city, but has been in a state of retiracy for two weeks past. She will commence an engagement soon. Warren is the principal comedian, and a good delineator. The business is confined to comedy and farce, as we have no Booth or Kesn, or any other tragedian in this city. However, theatricals will revive here, It is hoped, at no distant day.

The sleighing continues good, and we have winter proper—nothing more or less.

Holders offered flour yesterday at $6.63; no takers.

More Disasters on the Lares.—The steamer Lexington is back at last from Detroit. After repairing her false sides, and coating her bow with sheet iron, at Cleveland, so as to withstand the action of the ice, she left, downward bound, on Friday, and on Saturday night, when a short distance west of Erie, fire was discovered issuing in a solid column around the smokepipes for some distance above the deck. It was, however, subdued.

We learn that the schooner Favorite, Keeler, master, with a cargo of hardware, stoves, pipes, apples, sugar, and molasses, is sunk in the lake, some eight miles off Monroe. She, in company with the Sizer, and several others, attempted to go west from Cleveland, but, encountering much ice, the vessels attempted to make port the best way they could.

Captain Trowbridge sends us the following in relation to the wreck seen on the Canada shore:—

Nosmandale, Long Point, C. W. December 4th.—I learn from a party who have recently returned from the Point, that a large foretopsall schr. went down at her anchors on the night of 18th Nov., and all on board perished. Shecame to off the pitch of the Point, on the afternoon of the 17th, having lost her foresail, and, being otherwir edisabled, lay there repairing damages, until the next evening, when she was struck by a squall and went to the bottom. Her togallant yard is out of water.

The current report in Buffslo when I left, that the wrock of the Texas had come ashore between Gravelly Bay and Long Point, proves to be incorrect. All that remains of her is on the west shore of the Point.

The report of a man conning ashore from the schooner Ocean, is ascertained to be untrue. All on board of that vessel were lost.

The schooner ashore at Point Waubashanks was seen by the Cleveland, and supposed to be a lower laker, because those on board the steamer not flientifying her. The Filot is a small new vessel, and left this po

One of the Boston papers is criticising the performance of Mr. Neafle, in the Grost in "Hamlet."—Hear him—"The walk of a ghost, we facey, should be slow, dignified and solemn. According to the notion of an English critic, it should be acted as Shakspeare intimates, who has given us his conception of such an untoward visitant, and who shows the dread spirit to be at once amazingly solemn and dignified." If the editor had only been here on Thursday evening, and visited Palmo's, on the occasion of the first representation of "Hamlet" by our stage struck youths, he would not be quite so severe.

Dec. 12.—Feliz Quina vs. Abel Wheaton.—In September, 1844, the complainant, who had found that twelve of his hogs had been driven to the public pound, and which had been running at large in the thoroughfares of our city, contrary and in violation of our laws, made a demand for their restoration, tendering the sum of nearly twenty dollars for their redemption. This tender was declined as insufficient, and a bill of $37.50 was presented, as being the amount to which the city was entitled as penaity, cost of feeding, and the amount paid to the party driving them to the pound.

Mr. Graham, for the defendant, moved a non-suit, partly upon the ground that it was a mere question of law, and partly that a suit of this nature would be quite unentertaining to the jury, and one calculated to wastry the patience of the Court. Mr. Burlock, for the plaintiff, answers, and assent; provided a special vesicit be given. Whereupon, the jury found a verdict for the plaintiff, assessing the value of the property at $55, with liberty to enter a non-suit—or turn it into a verdict for defendant, and liquidate defendant's damages at $50.

They were associated as commission merchents in Warren street, for the purpose of dealing in pork, lard, &c. The complainant was to furnish necessary advances for the purchase of bogs, to be cut up, packed, pickled, and disposed of by him, and the profits resulting from the enterprise to be placed to the credit of the defendant. Jackson, one of the firm, went West in the fall of 1844, to make purchases, and died in New Orleans. The remaining partner subsequently followed him, and concluded purchases to a considerable amount, and the property was shipped first few twenty of this amount. Verdict to-morrow. DEC. 12.—The case of Andrew Foster et al. vs. The Jackson Marine Insurance Company, occupied the entire time of the Court to-day. It was a motion to set aside a verdict obtained upon a marine policy, claiming a total loss. The defendants on the trial urged a nonsuit on the ground of insufficient preliminary proofs, in not presenting one of the surveys and a deviation. H. Ketchum, Esq. for defendants; Chas, Moore, Esq. for plaintiffs, one of whom is F. B. Cutting.

S. We shall give the result of this argument whon concluded, involving, as it does, several nice and important questions connected with marine insurance.

It has been erroneously mentioned in some of the papers of the city, that Judge Edmonds had concluded the Circuit and Oyer and Terminer of Kings County, and had commenced the holding of the Circuit here. This is a misspyrehension. He is now holding an argument term, for the purpose of disposing of the accumulated number of cases consequent upon the long, protracted, and ineffectual occupation of the Court in the case of Polly Bodine.

An adjourned Circuit will be held on the first Monday of February, for the notice and trial of dow causes.

Dzc. 12.—Capt. Isaac Ludlew, of the barque Oscar, arrested for the murder of George Brown, alias Curtiss, on board said vassel, while lying off "Isle Grands," on the 18th August last, and won returned from Rio Janeiro on board ship "Etmonus" a few days since, was brought into court for his examination. Several depositions taken by the U. S. Consul, Geo. W. Gordon, Esq. at Rio Janeiro, were then read by consent of the coursel on either side, and which will determine the course to be pursued by the court in this matter. In connection with this subject, and in which much general interest has been expressed, we would state that no new or additional testmony was adduced beyond that which we gave in the examination of Baker and two others, under arrest for an attempt at mutiny on board this barque, reported in the Herald in the early part of November last.

FAILURE OF RAILROAD CONTRACTORS.—We learn that Melvin & Co., contractors for several sections of the Glouester Railroad, went off the track on Sunday last, carrying with them all their tools, and leaving some two or three hundred laborers and sunday clitzens of Beverly and Glouester minus to the amount of something like $3650. They had made considerable progress in the fulfilment of their contracts, and a few days previous to their decamping, had received from the railroad company all the pay to which they were entitled. Their audeen disappearance created considerable excitement in Glouester and Beverly, where several storekeepers, bakers, butchers, boarding-house keepers, &c., will be serious sufferers. The Irish laborers, it is said, are left in a very destitute condition.
